Myanmar Power Maw Shan

Maw Shan is a third-generation tea trading family business, on the market since 1964. We e source from Southern Shan State, an area in Myanmar known for growing high-quality tea, where cultivation has occurred for over a century. Most farmers still work with traditional handmade processing and handpicking methods, which are a perfect basis for sustainable production.

Maw Shan works closely with this community and, in 2018, became the first EU Organic certified supplier and the first company in Myanmar to export organic tea to Germany. Yet in 2019, Maw Shan became the first fair trade company in Myanmar certified by EcoCert Fair For Life.

Maw Shan works closely with farmers from 13 villages, providing them with training on sustainable cultivation, handpicking and pruning. Most of our tea bushes are over 60 years old, and all our teas are handpicked. Our plantations are at an elevation of more than 1,300 metres. Our processing meets the standards of high-grade quality tea.

Cambodia Mondulkiri Organic Pepper Agricultural Cooperative

The Mondulkiri Organic Pepper Agricultural Cooperative (MOPAC) has been practicing organic and natural planting in accordance with the EU, USDA, and Japanese organic standards since 2009.

In the growing region, 21 households benefit from the natural and organic pepper farms. The farms are located in Mondulkiri, a sparsely populated province in eastern Cambodia, and are situated in the middle of a tropical forest, where the natural farm is the primary source of the pepper. The pepper is grown without the use of chemical fertilizers or pesticides. It is collected by hand, sun-dried, and then processed and packed by the community.
